“kōan” Two Day Meditation Retreat Information

WHAT IS “KŌAN” ?	“An apparently paradoxical statement or question used in Chan practice to induce an intense level of doubt, allowing the practitioner to cut through conventional and conditioned descriptions of reality and see directly into their true nature.” Adapted from The Heart of Being by John Daido Looi
ABOUT THE BOOK: “PASSING THROUGH THE GATELESS BARRIER: PRACTICE FOR REAL LIFE”.	Gateways to awakening surround us at every moment of our lives. The whole purpose of kōan (gong’an, in Chinese) practice is to keep us from missing these myriad opportunities by leading us to certain gates that have traditionally been effective for people to access that marvelous awakening. The forty-eight kōans of the Gateless Barrier (Chinese: Wumenguan; Japanese: Mumonkan) have been waking people up for well over eight hundred years. Chan teacher Guo Gu provides here a fresh translation of the classic text, along with the first English commentary by a teacher of the Chinese tradition from which it originated. He shows that the kōans in this text are not mere stories from a distant past, but are rather pointers to the places in our lives where we get stuck—and that each sticking point, when examined, can become a gateless barrier through which we can enter into profound wisdom.

He was also the personal monastic attendant and assistant to Master Sheng Yen for almost nine years, and then in 1995, he was given permission by the Master to teach (inka) Chan. He has led retreats in various parts of the United States, Europe, and Asia. Guo Gu is now the guiding instructor for the Western Dharma Teachers at the Chan Meditation Center.
